LOCAL DOCTORS IN QUANDARY OVER ILLNESS

Medical Men Still at Loss to Attribute Cause for Poisoning which Swept College

FOOD SOURCES ARE PROBED

Contaminated Water and Tainted Meat Are Most Generally Blamed

Up until a late hour before going to press local physicians and health experts were still in a quandary as to the cause of the strange sickness that was widespread throughout the college community and vicinity on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of last week. The symptoms of it were similar to those of mild cases of ptomaine poisoning. Medical men refused to diagnose the sickness or to attribute a cause. At least a dozen men were confined and scores of others were sick.

Cases have also been reported in Clinton and New Hartford.

Investigators Baffled

Investigators of the causes locally have been unable to reach any definite conclusions and have been inclined to make rather light of it. Dr. Hamlin of Clinton said that it was very hard to determine the cause. He reported cases in Clinton. Professor Morrill, who has made a painstaking survey of the situation in local fraternity houses and the community generally said, ''Nothing can be proved concerning its cause. It is all cleared up now. Our college reservoirs are unusually well protected from contamination as there is a growth of pines at one extremity and abundant grass growing up to their banks. This trouble will hasten plans for the college infirmary. All cases of illness of this type should be reported to the president's office.''

President Ferry stated concerning it:

''I have conferred with Dr. Glass, the Utica surgeon, and Dr. Dudley, the Health Officer of Clinton, in regard to this matter. It seems that the popular report of the number of cases that were prevalent has been considerably exaggerated. No bacteriological examination can be made as there are no cases left.''

Several general theories have been advanced in regard to its cause. One of them was that contaminated meat served on Wednesday and Thursday at the various fraternity houses and in Commons had been the cause. Others believed that the condition of the milk supply had been the underlying reason. A more widely ascribed cause is the prolonged rainfall on Monday and Tuesday which was said to have effected sufficient disturbance of the water supply to produce contamination. It has been impossible to prove any one of these theories.

Life Conducts Survey

A thorough investigation conducted by Life revealed the following information concerning the college food supply. As far as can be determined all the fraternities except D. K. E. and Commons purchase meat from one general source and they all procure their milk from one source. The fact that the Dekes have not had a case lends color to the theory that the meat was the cause. The milk dealer runs his dairy in a sanitary manner and gets the milk from tuberculin tested cows which produce a very pure grade of milk, so that it is unlikely that this is the source of the trouble. It is interesting to note that the Deke House with not a case and the Psi U House with only five cases, are the only places where drinking water is run through special filters. It would seem that the condition of the water had something at least to do with the cause of it, especially since unusually heavy rains occurred on Monday and Tuesday. This fact that the Chi Betas, who have been drinking unfiltered college water, reported only one case, may be explained by the fact that the water had settled considerably by the time it reached their house at the bottom of the hill. On the other hand, residents of the college community report that in their memory there has never been a similar occurrence after heavy rains. Whether the rains should have caused such a condition in the drinking water at this time is a moot question and many are not inclined to lay the cause to this source.

—Frank M. Smith, '84, superintendent of schools in Johnson City, was here on Saturday for the Haverford game.

FORTY MEN ATTEND Y. M. C. A. BIBLE CLASS

Committee Encouraged by Turn-out Plans Enlarged Program of Study

Last Sunday morning at the Y. M. C. A., the Bible Discussion class met for the first time this year, with an attendance of 40 men. This attendance was nearly double last year's turn-out and the committee in charge, encouraged by this support and show of interest, is planning a program of study and discussion which will enlarge the group still more.

Two separate classes are to be held simultaneously, one for upperclassmen and the other for freshmen. John Gregory, vice-president of the Y, has general charge of these groups and assisting him with the upperclassman division will be Packer, Roberts, and Scovel, '25. Brink, Sanborne, and Wilcox, '27, will help in the freshman group. The class meets in the Y. M. C. A. directly after Sunday chapel and the discussion lasts for half an hour. This time is the most convenient for all the undergraduates and the sessions are limited in length in order to prevent useless drawing out of discussion. Since at this time directly after Sunday chapel almost all the students except those in the choir are free, it is hoped that this activity of the Y will be heartily supported by all four classes.

The lesson material is taken from the life of Christ and worked out in general discussion instead of a system of lectures or readings. Later an outline study of some well-known religious book is planned if the majority of the group approves.

SOCCER TEAM DEFEATED BY COLGATE AT HAMILTON

Buff and Blue Hold Maroon Only Until Middle of First Half

In a most disappointing exhibition of lack of aggressiveness, the Hamilton soccer team was defeated by Colgate at Hamilton 8-0 on Saturday afternoon. The Hilltop aggregation held their opponents well until the middle of the first half, when the first goal was scored; then, in the last five minutes of that period, three successive shots passed Burke. Again in the second half four goals were made at intervals of two minutes each. In the latter period Burke had to fall on the ball to save it, and he gamely hung on until he was knocked unconscious by the kicks of his adversaries, who had rushed him. Hatch then replaced Burke.

Next week the team meets R. P. I. at Troy. The latter had a strong squad here last year, when they won a close game, and it is expected that they will put up a hard fight on their home field.

The lineup for the Colgate game was as follows:

Hamilton: Hatch, capt., D. Payne, Nichols, Yuan and Forshay, forwards; Brown, Howk and J. Chase, halfbacks; Ireland and Doty, fullbacks; Burke, goal. Colgate: Lee, McConnell, Richardson, Epting and Schmidt, forwards; Clark, Martin and Bolla, halfbacks; Barnes, Vanderweghe, fullbacks; and Glenn, goal.

Substitutions: Hamilton, 1st half: T. A. Bald for Doty, I. J. Bald for Yuan; 2nd half: Hatch for Burke, Howk for Hatch, Tolles for Howk, Doty for Ireland.

Score: Colgate 8, Hamilton 0. Referee: Chase. Time of halves, 35 min.; intermission 11 min.

TWELVE MEN LEFT IN FOURTH BRACKET

As a result of tennis matches played during the week, the following are left to compete for the fourth bracket: A. R. Thompson, Capps, Bingham, Kelly, Church, Chase, Fanning, Ballard, Burke, Kirby, Reed and Warner. Manager Rathbun requests that the third bracket be played by Saturday.

GOLF COMMITTEE REVISES OLD RULES; MAKES NEW ONES

Balls Within Six Inches of Protruding Boulders in Fairway May Be Moved

ETIQUETTE SUGGESTED

Cooperation in Observance of Rules is Asked

At a meeting of the Golf Committee at the Chi Psi Lodge last Sunday evening the list of rules governing the use of the college links was revised, and a few new regulations were added.

On account of immovable boulders lodged in the fairways, the committee saw fit to pass favorably on the following:

''Balls on the fairway driven to within six inches of protruding stones which cannot be dislodged from the earth may be lifted and dropped not nearer the hole without loss of stroke.'' Pebbles, movable stones, and dead vegetation, according to the United States Golf Association rules, may be removed without penalty.

The Committee also passed a rule relative to the driveway on the first hole. ''If a ball be driven into the driveway crossing the fairway on the first hole, the ball may be lifted and dropped not nearer the hole without loss of stroke.''

The following rules of etiquette are to be observed:

(1). No one should stand close to or directly behind the ball, or should move or talk when a player is making a stroke. On the putting green, no one should stand beyond the hole in the line of a player's stroke.

(2). The player who has the honour should be allowed to play before his opponent tees his ball.

(3). No player should play from the tee until the party in front have played their second strokes and are out of range, nor play up to a putting green till the party in front have holed out and moved off the green.

(4). Players who have holed out should not try their putts over again when other players are following.

(5). Players looking for lost balls should allow approaching players to pass them, and should signal them to do so, and having given such a signal they should not continue their play until the players have passed and are out of reach.

(6). Turf cut or displaced by a player should be carefully replaced and pressed down.

(7). Players should not injure holes by standing close to them when the ground is soft.

(8). Players should not stick the point of the flag-pin into the putting green and should carefully lay the flag down when putting so as not to injure the green.

(9). Golf bags should at no time be placed on the putting greens.

(10.) When driving, players are requested to tee ball on the shale part of the tees in order to keep the grass edges in good condition.

(11.) A twosome has right of way over a foursome, and a foursome has right of way over a threesome. Single players must give right of way to twosomes and foursomes.

(12.) Shoes with heavy soles or high heels should not be worn.

(13.) Persons on the course who are not playing should at all times keep out of the way of players, and should at no time walk upon a putting green.

(14.) The warning ''Fore'' should be loudly called before taking a stroke if there is any danger of hitting another player or anyone working on the course.

(15). No one should leave a tee until all the players have driven.

(16.) Practice shots with clubs other than putters should not be taken on the putting greens.

The Committee's definition of the out-of-bounds on the College course is as follows:

Hole 1, Property of A. P. Saunders, running track to the right of the tee, and the road to the left of the tee.

Hole 2, Property of A. P. Saunders, the fence at the rear of the football grandstand, and the road to the left of the green.

On the sixth hole a ball not driven out of the pit shall be reteed with loss of distance only, the reteed drive counting as a second stroke.

G. O. P. CLUB PLANS RALLY IN COMMONS

Local Political Organization with Half of College Enrolled Expects 85 Percent. Membership by Saturday

STUDENTS TO SPEAK IN UTICA

Election Night Returns Will Come Direct to College from Headquarters

The Republican Club, with a present enrollment of half the student body and expectations that 85 percent. of the entire college will be wearing the tri-colored buttons before the end of the week, has outlined an active campaign for the period between now and election day, beginning with a rally in Commons on Friday night. A canvass of the faculty will be made this week and the club will attempt to stimulate interest in the community by holding meetings in the vicinity of Clinton at which members of the executive committee will speak on political issues. At present the only faculty members who are taking a part in the club's activities are Senator Davenport, who is interested from a political standpoint, and Professor Lewis, who is active through his interest and assistance in the speeches to be made by students.

Rally in Commons

There will be a political rally in Commons after the pep meeting on Friday night, at which two or three speakers, including William Ross Lee, '00, and Paul B. Williams, '08, will address the college, taking for their subjects the main issues of the Republican party. Following the speeches, cider and doughnuts will be served. The meeting is open to everyone and, as the amount of support the undergraduates give will determine whether or not the college will be visited by leading Republicans of the state, the executive committee hopes that every student will attend. If enough interest is shown in the activities of the organization, it is expected that Senator Wadsworth will make an address here during the latter part of the month.

Plan Utica Meeting

The club will hold a meeting at the Republican Club in Utica on Saturday evening, Oct. 18th, one of the features to be speeches by Hamilton students. The Republican party, the first political organization to be active in colleges of the country, has direct supervision over the Hamilton College club, and keeps the organization posted on the latest political developments thruout the nation. Pamphlets, containing Republican propaganda, will be distributed on the campus this week. On election night the club will get the returns directly from headquarters and thus relay authentic information to the college.

The functioning of the organization will not cease with election. The organization plans to hold meetings from time to time during the year for the purpose of discussing political questions, and at which there will be speakers from outside the college. The committees of the club for the year are as follows: entertainment, Davies, '25, Perry, '25, and Collins, '26; speakers, Thomas, '25, Thompson, '25, and Payne, '26; publicity, Harding, '25, and Payne, '26; advisory, Braunton, '25, Towne, '25, and Strong, '26.

UTICA SMITH COLLEGE CLUB TO PRESENT RUTH DRAPER

Ruth Draper will present her original character sketches at the De Luxe Theater, Utica, on Monday evening, Oct. 20, under the auspices of the Smith College Club of Utica. She does not present merely one-sided conversation, but she enacts little cameos of characters that one minute hold her audience tense in pathos, the next moment laughing at the foibles of easily recognized society types. Hamilton conferred on Miss Draper at the commencement exercises held here last June the degree of Master of Arts.

Only one of the sketches that she presented on the Hill will be given in Utica. There will be nine other sketches. At the suggestion of the interfraternity council a block of seats has been reserved for Hamilton students. The cost of the seats in this section is $2 each. Tickets may be secured any time between now and next week Thursday from members of the interfraternity council.

—George C. Morehouse, Jr., ex-'24, will be married to Miss Priscilla Grant in Westminster Presbyterian Church, Utica, on Saturday, Oct. 18.

COLUMBIA OUTDOES HAMILTON POLITICALLY

Columbia outdoes Hamilton politically, having the three political parties represented by clubs in the undergraduate body. The Columbia University LaFollette Club met Friday night and was addressed by alumni regarding the policies of their candidate. Supporters of Davis held a meeting in the evening while at the same time the Coolidge enthusiasts held a rally.

HAMILTON TO BUCK UNLUCKY ROCHESTER

Yellow and Black Plays Here Saturday—Has Tasted Defeat Twice This Season

Two teams, each determined to break a losing streak, will meet next Saturday when Hamilton and Rochester hook up on the home field. Both squads have twice tasted defeat this season and each will be out to mark the game up on the right side of the ledger.

In their opener the Rochester gridders went down before the strong Niagara crew while last Saturday they were slipped the short end of a 20 to 10 score by Wesleyan. Reports from the game of last week seem to indicate that Rochester has an excellent offense but is rather weak defensively.

The Buff and Blue squad should be in much better shape this week than they were in the Haverford contest. The men seem to be recovering from the epidemic of stomach trouble which attacked the entire student body and the effects of the Williams game are wearing off.

Present indications are that Olmsted, the giant tackle, will be able to get back into the lineup after a week's layoff due to a pulled tendon in his leg. This shift will allow Captain Towne to return to his regular position in the backfield. Pierce, promising freshman, has been unable to practice for some time due to a bad leg, but is expected to report soon. One of the coaches' worries over the backs seems to have been put to an end when Morris showed that his nose has entirely mended, by playing most of the game with Haverford.

Fumbling to Be Hit

If there is one defect that will be particularly stressed in this week's practice, it will be fumbling. In last year's game at Rochester on five separate occasions the Buff and Blue carried the ball to the enemy's five-yard line only to lose it on fumbles each time.

The pass will also receive considerable attention this week. Potentially the pass is Rochester's strongest method of attack. With a light, fast backfield, the pass is particularly adapted to the needs of the team. Most of the passes attempted are completed and if a little distance can be obtained, they should prove a valuable ground-gaining device.

COLLEGE BRIEFS

—The Geology 7-8 class under the direction of Dr. Dale went on a field rip last Thursday and Friday to Black Bear Mountain, which is in the vicinity of Seventh Lake. The purpose of the trip was to study the mature mountain topography of the area. The geologists went in taxis and flivvers. They stayed over night at the Seventh Lake House. The swim in the icy lake was a feature of the trip.

—Last Wednesday morning the Junior Class was partially organized. Frank H. Robson, John W. Chase, Harold Michels and Hollister Marquardt were nominated for president. Marquardt was elected in the final vote held on Thursday morning. The next day Frank R. Robson, Paul R. Taylor, who declined, H. Newell Holley and Tobias J. Collins were put up for vice-president.

—The Alpha Delts will hold a tea dance Staurday, October 18th, from 4 until 7 o'clock. Music will be furnished by the Black and White Orchestra.

—President and Mrs. Ferry will give a reception for the freshmen at their home Friday evening, Oct. 17th, from 8:30 to 10 o'clock.

—The Hamilton Alumni of Utica entertained Dr. Ferry and many of the faculty at an informal dinner at the University Club last Saturday night. A quartette composed of Russell Thompson, Glenn Springmann, Harold Hastings, and Deidrich Towne, all of the Hamilton College Glee Club, entertained with college songs.

—The faculty entertained the trustees of the college at a dinner at the Faculty Club on Friday evening. There were about 55 present.

HAMILTON LOSES GRID CONTEST TO HAVERFORD

Buff and Blue Players in Weakened Condition from Sickness Epidemic Play at Disadvantage

SCORE IS 13-0

Line is Constantly Punctured for Big Gains—Visitors Hold Edge in Last Three Periods

In the second gridiron contest of the season last Saturday afternoon, Hamilton met defeat at the hands of the heavier Haverford team by the score of 13-0. Many Hamilton players were in a weakened condition from the general epidemic of stomach disorder. Several times in the course of the game, Hamilton came within an ace of putting the ball over the line, but luck did not favor the Buff and Blue. The game was loosely played throughout and the team still showed many early season defects. The line was constantly punctured for big gains. Both teams were about equally matched in the first quarter, but Haverford had the edge in the last three periods. The visitors made most of their gains in end runs and off tackle plays. Middleton was the most consistent gainer for the Red and Black, and carried the ball over the line twice. Haverford made several successful forward passes, but did not rely on an aerial game. Morris, fast Hamilton halfback, made most of the gains for the Buff nd Blue, and at one time in the fourth quarter was within one man of a clear field and a touchdown. Thomas, right guard, played a consistent game, as did G. Stanley. Barbeson also played a good game. The offensive play of the Buff and Blue was about equally divided between passes and end runs. Springmann and Bookhout at the ends were fast and used good judgment.

First Quarter

Hamilton kicked off to Haverford's 10-yard line. The Red and Black almost immediately began the end runs which were a feature of the game. When the Buff and Blue gained possession of the ball, it was well within their own territory. Morris received a pass for a gain, but lost the ball in an end run on the next down. Hamilton held Haverford, and was held to little gain in her turn. The quarter ended with the ball in Haverford's possession. Haverford 0, Hamilton 0.

Second Quarter

In the second quarter, Haverford's end runs put the ball nearer and nearer Hamilton's goal posts. Then the Buff and Blue was penalized. The ball was carried to within a few yards of the line. Billo failed to kick goal. The half ended with the ball in Hamiilton's territory. Haverford 6, Hamilton 0.

Third Quarter

Haverford kicked off to Hamilton's ten yard line. The Buff and Blue was unable to bring the ball out of its own territory. Haverford gained consistently. Middleton broke through and carried the ball over the line, but Haverford was offside. At the end of the quarter, Hamilton made some successful end runs, and showed some clever passing. She was unable to break through the Haverford defense, however. Barbeson, Hamilton halfback, was injured, but continued in the game. The quarter ended with the ball in Hamilton's territory. Haverford 6, Hamilton 0.

Fourth Quarter

The fourth quarter began by Hamilton's carrying the ball into Haverford's territory. For a while, consistent gains were made. Morris almost eluded the Red and Black defense. Then Haverford got possession of the ball, and Middleton made several big gains. The ball approached the Hamilton goal, and was stopped on the one yard line, only to be carried across the next play by Middleton. Billo kicked goal. The Buff and Blue held Haverford for the rest of the game, and the ball remained near the center of the field. The game ended with the ball in Haverford's possession. The final score: Haverford 13, Hamilton 0.

An Auspicious Beginning.

Two subjects which have appeared time without number in the editorial columns of most college newspapers, even to the point where lampooning editions have taken such subjects unto themselves—deal with keeping off the grass and interrogation as to what is wrong with the spirit of the freshman class. The latter subject is more especially appropriate in the fall of the year, and already many college newspapers have consumed pages of space on so enthraling a subject.

As the old newspaper yarn goes—it's news if the man bites the dog—so it deserve comment when freshmen show the spirit and enthusiasm in college activities as early as the class of 1928 has. The freshmen have been on hand in goodly numbers at the cheering and song practices, and twenty-five recently turned out for the glee club try-outs, and an equally large number for the instrumental club tests. It is too soon to prophesy as to the permanency of the really excellent spirit the new men have shown thus far, but it is safe to say that they have made an auspicious beginning for the largest class ever to enter Hamilton.

Why the Classics?

''Omnis Gallia est divisa'' are words which recall a language that every man in Hamilton, with the exception of those who have studied Greek, has struggled with for at least two years before coming to college. Some have liked the language, many have vociferously damned it, and not a few have wondered just why colleges required it, or its Greek equivalent, for admission. Many have been the arguments resulting from the classical requirements at Hamilton, athletics finding in them a really difficult obstacle.

Nor has the dispute as to whether classics actually were worth while been limited to those who have been forced to study them. College faculties in many of the larger colleges of the country have lessened their entrance requirements in Latin and Greek. Some colleges such as Hamilton, have clung tenaciously to the teachings of the old school in this respect and have continued to stress the classics. The report of a group including some 80 professors and others, teachers of the classics for the most part, recently made at the instigation of the General Education Board, would seem to substantiate the Hamilton policy.

The report is called the ''classical investigation'' and was not conducted by ''big business'' men, but by many of the foremost proponents of the classics, under the direction of Dean Andrew F. West of Princeton University. The purpose of the investigation was to find out through experts the value of Latin and Greek as taught in schools and colleges in America. Naturally their case is as strong a one as probably could be presented. However, several of the facts they present are rather amazing.

For example, it is reported that ''a few thousand more than a million'' students are still taking Latin and Greek. This number is as many as in all the other language courses combined. Also many colleges report an increasing interest in Latin and Greek and several have introduced or re-introduced the classics into their curricula. Morevore, in the College Entrance Examination Board records covering a ten-year period, Greek stands topmost among the four subjects which have the largest enrollment of students.

The gist of the report is to be found in the following statement:

''We recognize that Latin pupils are of a somewhat higher initial ability than other pupils and that part of the result is due to this cause. There is positive evidence, however, that this initial superiority is less than has been generally supposed, that a large part of the result is presumably due to something derived from the study of Latin, that this part grows larger, the longer Latin is studied, and that, in so far as Latin and non-Latin pupils of admittedly equal initial ability have been tested experimentally in subjects outside of Latin, the Latin pupils usually make the better record.''

The report would seem to indicate that the classics are not dead issues, that there is great value in them, and that there is some excuse for the Hamilton requirements.

The Same Old Bird.

An organization started on the Hill last year known as the Parrot Club recently held a meeting with a view to acquiring new members from the freshman class. In fact many freshmen already have been approached by members of the organization and have been given a certain time in which to debate whether they wish to accept a bid or not.

The Parrots this year, possibly with a view toward an attempted elevation of general standing, have changed their name to assume one of Greek letters. The fact remains, nevertheless, that the organization was not recognized last year by the Upperclassman Council nor by any other properly constituted college authority, although the Parrot Club sought such recognition. A further fact is that the organization will not be recognized this year as a legitimate college association, according to members of the Upperclassman Council.

The club, which is of a more or less harmless nature, is of no benefit to the college, upperclasmen point out. The stated purposes are meaningless because they are not backed up by action. The general feeling is that for freshmen to join such an organization would be a waste of money and valuable time. As has frequently been pointed out in the past, there are already too many organizations on the Hill of one kind or another. Each of them makes demands on time. Why should freshmen who, as a rule, need every minute they have for studies and wholesome outside activity, be bulldozed by a certain crowd of sophomores into joining an organization with no real merit and one which will not be sanctioned by the college at large? Upperclassmen say that the sane ones won't.

Carpe Diem

Greetings, fair readers.

Our copy was in rather late this week, Cal having stepped soundly on three successive discussions. At the end of the first one he said, ''Carpe, don't try to turn the chapel platform into a tragedy stage, write something cheerful''; after the second one he tells us not to ''turn the platform into a vaudeville stage''; and at the end of the last one we are told not to ''turn the platform into a stage.'' We seem to have passed through three of Shakespeare' Seven Stages.

Alexander Coburn Soper, THIRD, complains of the lack of publicity he is getting this year. He has already spent the money which he hopes to divide with Jack Hatch from Gaboon profits on barber pole golf stockings, but Brother Sayres is casting him in the darkness with his Red, White and Blue Specials. Alec claims that he's wearing his hat at a much sharper angle than last year, but nobody will make slams at it. In despair, Alec finally arranged with the Brothers to put on a Soper demonstration as he left Commons Thursday night, but Coburn claims the event a failure because some one forgot to turn out the lights and put on a spot-light. Courage, Alexander, we promise that if you wear those pink pajamas to Chapel some morning one or two persons might notice you.

A Misty Day

There never was a day so well begun;
Until the Magic Lantern of the Sun
  Slipt out of focus, and the falling mist
Revealed the clear brocade the dawn had spun.
I cannot see so clearly now nor far.
The distance is a place where dim things are.
But I can dream of things that might be there,
Of things that no reality will scar.

And here's the weekly story (Carpe had one last week, one of Hambone's new Southern wise-cracks, but just as we started to typewrite it, it got up and walked off the paper): One of those pushing graduates of the International Correspondence School who in five years will be making $10,000 while you are—but just read their ad—well, this young man was trying to get his employer to come out to his suburban home for dinner.

''Well, can you come Monday, Sir?''

''Sorry, Jiggs, but there's an important meeting of the Board of Directors that night.''

''Let's make it Tuesday night, then.''

''Sorry, but my wife is having a theater party that night.''

''Well, Wednesday's the day for it.''

''I'd like to, Jiggs, but I'm going out of town that night.''

''I've got it; Thursday night?''

''Why, ah, uh, ahem; why, damn it all, I'll come Monday.''

Carpe admired Jay Kay's ''Return of the Stewed Junior'' last week, but is surprised to see this contributor rise in wrath and smite no less personages than Calvin Coolidge and Dick Thompson. How he does talk!

Headquarters.

Dear Carpe:

It is with the greatest pain that I, a sterling patriot and an earnest worker in the movement ''Solid Silver Soup Spoons for Suffering Siberians,'' view the inroad that is being made upon the opinion of the unintelligenzia of this College by that Great American Mental Vacuum, Calvin Coolidge. Not that I am unaware of the qualities which this Great Silent Man offers to the public at large (and, by the way, most of them shouldn't be). Ah, no. There is something fascinating in a man who is busy at the White House sitting and thinking—and who justifies this faith during the greater part of the day by not even taking time out to do the latter; who, though he hate them with all his soul, devours beans and pie at 7:50 each day in order that no man may accuse him of breaking faith with his forefathers of Scolley Square; who unblushingly may face any man on the Great American Campus, catch him around the throat, and shout fiercely, ''I'm a Christian!'' who insists that no photographers be present as he casts the last wisp of hay to the top of the derrick up on the Old Homestead. (Orchestra: ''Home, Sweet Home.'') I say again, there is some personal power that is expressed, for example, in his speeches. Gems of wisdom, they! Clever Cal has made a smart play here. He psychologically appeals to the sentimental past in each of us. What intelligent voter will ever forget the moment when he first read those honeyed platitudes in his second grade primer? And here they are, cropping out again in the speeches of the Great Man! Downright cagey, I call it.

To get back to the Campus. So Dick Thompson wants to be the next ambassador to Senegambia—and to make sure of his job, he is going to put the finishing touches on te Sphynx' election! Well enough. But in common with the other people of this country who have the welfare of the prohibition act at heart, I rise to protest against his methods. Dastardly business, Carpe! When (think of it!) you and I and the rest of the God-fearing people around here thought that the days of the corner saloon had gone forever! The College Republican rally will be held in two weeks. Cider and doughnuts. The cider, doubtless, explains the fortnight's delay. And are we to think the doughnuts an emblem? Consider them carefully: an empty space—a vacuum, if you will—in the vital place!

For as Ham. Coll. goes, so doesn't go the nation!

Beacons of the sky

Between Cleveland and Rock Springs, Wyo., along the night route of the air mail service, tall beacons have been placed every twenty-five miles.

Revolving on great steel towers, General Electric searchlights, totaling 1,992,000,000 candle-power, blaze a path of light for the airplane pilot.

What the lighthouse is to the ocean navigator, these beacons are to the conquerors of the air.

This achievement has been made possible by engineers of the Illuminating Engineering Laboratories of the General Electric Company, working with officials of the Post Office Department. A startling achievement now will be a commonplace of life in the new America which you will inherit.

If you are interested to learn more about what electricity is doing, write for Reprint No. AR391 containing a complete set of these advertisements.

GLEE CLUB TRYOUTS REVEAL GOOD MATERIAL

The try-outs for the Glee Club which were conducted recently to fill vacancies both in the personnel of the club and of the quartet revealed good material, but no very great training in the men contesting. Ten freshmen made places for themselves in the club as well as several upperclassmen and sophomores. The men on the Glee Club at the present time number 50, but that number will be cut very shortly. Those men who fail to attend rehearsals regularly will be the first ones to be dropped.

The first tenors will be Leader A. R. Thompson, Bitely, and Holmes, '25; Ferris, Springman, and Whitbeck, '27; E. Clark, Donnelly, Higgins, Hiler, and Staubach, '28. The second tenors will be Mahannah, Pope, Scott, R. E. Thompson, Ladd, and Garypie, '25; Freeman, Lonsdale, and Robson, '26; Dold, Sayres, Snyder, and Wheeler, '27; and Brockway, Harper, and Heyl, '28. The first basses will be Bingham, Croasdaile, Johnson, Soper, Towne, and J. Valentine, '25; Button, Daymont, Nichols, Squier, and Katz, '26, and Preston and Smith, '27. The second basses will be Hastings and Perrine, '25; Brazeau, Chretien, and De La Fleur, '26; Browne, Groff, and Wylie, '27; and MacLean and Jewell, '28.

The college quartet will be composed of Springmann, '27, first tenor; Thompson, '25, second tenor; Towne, '25, first bass; and Hastings, '25, second bass.

COLLEGE LIBRARY ADDS MANY NEW VOLUMES

During the summer months the College Library has added to its shelves nearly 2,000 books. Several thousand volumes have been moved from the ground to the top floor in order to relieve the crowding. Preparations are being made by Prof. Joseph D. Ibbotson, librarian, for a special room for debaters.

When the present building was planned, ten years ago, it was thought that no change would be required for at least a generation, but at the end of last year the stack room was so crowded that there was no place for more books. The accession of many sets of important scholarly publications was the chief cause of this lack of space. Only by moving many volumes from the first floor to the stacks of the fourth floor, has room been provided for the important works. There are now about 150,000 books and pamphlets in the building.

The reference books, encyclopedias, atlases, etc., have been moved from the west end of the reading room to the little stack room to the east of the reading room. This will make room for more periodicals in the big room.

Adjoining the room devoted to fine arts and archeology, is being prepared the debaters' room, containing tables and chairs. Bound volumes of the "New York Times" are to be filed there along with other reference books for debating. This room will allow men who are debating together to consult each other while studying.

Among important new books added last summer is a complete file of the "London Punch," 165 volumes, starting in 1841. These books, besides being highly amusing, furnish a very faithful picture of English politics.

Slick headwork

Getting the right tailor, trailing with the right crowd, keeping the "profs" properly complaisant all come under this heading. But a tousled, untidy mane and dandruff on your "tuck" collar are always bad form.

Getting a bottle of "Vaseline" Hair Tonic and using it regularly keeps the scalp healthy and makes stiff hair look silky. It prevents dandruff and puts on the finishing touch of slick headwork. At all drug stores and student barber shops.

Every "Vaseline" product is recommended everywhere because of its absolute purity and effectiveness.

MUSICAL CLUB TYR-OUTS REVEAL SOME GOOD TALENT

The try-outs for the Instrumental Club that were held last Wednesday night revealed a moderate amount of good talent. Seven new men were picked to be on the club this year besides those who made last year's Easter trip. The new men with their instruments are: Burke, '25, banjo; Ferris, '27, trombone; Axtel, '28, violin and saxophone; Barbeson, '28, banjo; Brockway, '28, saxophone; Harper, '28, saxophone; and Staubach, '28, saxophone. With the combination of these new men with the more experienced players, the Instrumental Club bids fair to have a very successful season. Practice will start in the near future, and it is possible that necessary changes in the club will be indicated by the rehearsals. In addition to the group playing, material for a violin soloist for the concerts was discovered.

CROSS COUNTRY MEN MEET HOBART HERE SATURDAY

Last Week's Sickness Epidemic Prevented Squad Practice

This Saturday the cross-country team meets Hobart on the Hill. The Hill men have a decided handicap to overcome because so many were laid up with the sickness prevailing on the Hill last week that they have been unable, so far, to hold a squad competition. Then, too, Ken Watkins, who was a fine runner last year, is now unable to run. Also, several of last year's men are ineligible. However, Capt. Clarke is in fine fettle, and promises to show his consistent winning form in the contest. Last year the team lost to the Geneva athletes but the score was very close. This year the meet is on a course with which all our men are familiar, and the dope is that Hamilton will win well.
